1. Complaint volume

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) is the first federal agency solely focused on consumer financial protection,¹ and consumer complaints² are an integral part of that work. The CFPB helps connect consumers with financial companies to make their voices heard. When consumers submit a complaint, we work with companies to get the consumer a response, generally within 15 days. We also publish basic information about complaints in our public Consumer Complaint Database to empower consumers, inform consumer advocates and companies, and improve the functioning of the marketplace. This Monthly Complaint Report provides a high-level snapshot of trends in consumer complaints. The Monthly Complaint Report uses a three-month rolling average, comparing the current average to the same period in the prior year where appropriate, to account for monthly and seasonal fluctuations. In some cases, we use month-to-month comparisons to highlight more immediate trends. For company-level complaint data, we use a three-month rolling average of complaints sent to companies for response. This company-level complaint data lags other complaint data in this report by two months to reflect the 60 days companies have to respond to complaints, confirming a commercial relationship with the consumer. This is consistent with complaints found in the public Consumer Complaint Database.³

¹ The Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-203 (“Dodd-Frank Act”) created the CFPB to protect consumers of financial products or services and to encourage the fair and competitive operation of consumer financial markets.

² Consumer complaints are submissions that express dissatisfaction with, or communicate suspicion of wrongful conduct by, an identifiable entity related to a consumer’s personal experience with a financial product or service.

³ This report is based on dynamic data and may slightly differ from other public reports. Company-level information should be considered in context of company size and/or market share. Complaints referred to other regulators, such as complaints about depository institutions with less than $10 billion in assets, are not published in the Consumer Complaint Database.

Visit consumerfinance.gov/complaint to learn about how we handle complaints or to submit a complaint. Visit our Consumer Complaint Database at consumerfinance.gov/complaintdatabase to search, sort, filter, and export complaints.

1.1 Complaint volume by product

As of February 1, 2017, the CFPB has handled approximately 1,110,100 complaints, including approximately 29,700 complaints in January 2017. Table 1 shows the percentage change in complaint volume by product, comparing November 2015 - January 2016 with November 2016 - January 2017.⁴

TABLE 1: CHANGE IN COMPLAINT VOLUME

	% change	3 month average: Nov 2015 - Jan 2016	3 month average: Nov 2016 - Jan 2017

Credit reporting	18%	3,506	4,128
Debt collection	12%	6,438	7,196

Money transfer	-14%	201	173
Payday loan	-26%	408	302
Total	21%	20,705	25,073

⁴ Complaint totals include all complaints with product breakdowns focusing on the most-complained-about consumer financial products and services.

- Student loan complaints showed the greatest percentage increase from November 2015 - January 2016 (497 complaints) to November 2016 - January 2017 (2,425 complaints), representing about a 388 percent increase. Part of this year-to-year increase can be attributed to the CFPB updating its student loan intake form to accept complaints about Federal student loan servicing in February 2016.
- Payday loan complaints showed the greatest percentage decrease from November 2015 - January 2016 (408 complaints) to November 2016 - January 2017 (302 complaints), representing about a 26 percent decline.

Table 2 shows the complaint volume this month by product. The graphic at the end of each row under the heading “Monthly complaints” shows the volume trend from when the CFPB began accepting complaints about that product (green bullet) to the current month (blue bullet). The monthly average reflects complaints handled per month since we began accepting those complaints.⁵

⁵ The CFPB has used a phased-in approach to expand its complaint handling over time to include multiple products and services under its authority. Complaint-handling capacity was expanded as follows: credit card complaints on July 21, 2011, mortgage complaints on December 1, 2011, bank accounts and services, private student loans, and consumer loans on March 1, 2012, credit reporting on October 22, 2012, money transfers on April 4, 2013, debt collection on July 10, 2013, payday loans on November 6, 2013, prepaid cards, credit repair, debt settlement, and pawn and title loans on July 19, 2014, and virtual currency on August 11, 2014. See Table 2.

1.3 Complaint volume by company

Complaint data in this section lags other complaint data by two months to reflect the 60 days companies have to respond to complaints, confirming a commercial relationship with the consumer. Figure 1 and Table 4 show the top 10 most-complained-about companies for September - November 2016. Figure 1 also shows which products consumers complained about for each company. The “Other” category includes consumer loans, student loans, money transfers, payday loans, prepaid cards, and other financial service complaints. Company-level information should be considered in context of company size and/or market share.

- By average monthly complaint volume, Wells Fargo (1,345), Equifax (1,321), and TransUnion (1,205) were the most-complained-about companies for September - November 2016.
- Wells Fargo experienced the greatest percentage increase in average monthly complaint volume (63 percent) from September - November 2015 to September - November 2016.
- Bank of America experienced the least percentage increase in average monthly complaint volume (8 percent) from September - November 2015 to September - November 2016.

⁸ Monthly average calculated from the month the CFPB first handled complaints for the company. Total complaints represent cumulative complaints sent to companies through November 2016.

2. Product spotlight: Credit reporting

The CFPB has handled approximately 185,700 credit reporting complaints since July 21, 2011, making credit reporting the third most-complained-about product, representing 17 percent of total complaints.

Approximately 132,200 (or 71 percent) of all credit reporting complaints handled by the CFPB from July 21, 2011 through January 31, 2017 were sent by the CFPB to companies for review and response. The remaining complaints have been found to be incomplete (27 percent), referred to other regulatory agencies (1 percent), or are pending with the CFPB or the consumer (0.4 percent and 0.2 percent, respectively).

Complaints handled by the Bureau, including those sent to other regulators, serve to inform the Bureau in its work to supervise companies, to enforce consumer financial laws, to write better rules and regulations, and to educate and engage consumers.

2.1 Credit reporting complaints by type

The CFPB continually strives to collect reliable complaint data while ensuring the system's ease-of-use and effectiveness for consumers. When consumers submit complaints, they select the consumer financial product or service as well as the issue they are having with that product or service from a list. This provides structured data that can be used to group complaints to get a sense of which financial products and services consumers complain about and what issues they are having in the marketplace.

Figure 2 shows the types of credit reporting complaints consumers submitted as a percentage of all credit reporting complaints handled since July 21, 2011. The most common issues identified by consumers are problems with incorrect information on credit report (76 percent) and credit reporting company's investigation (9 percent).

We also collect unstructured data from consumers and companies during the complaint process. The consumer's narrative description of what happened, consumer-provided documents, the company's response, and company-provided documents are examples of unstructured data. The Bureau uses a variety of approaches to analyze consumer complaints including, for example, cohort and text analytics to identify trends and possible consumer harm. Our review and analysis of unstructured data offers deeper insights into consumers' complaints and helps the Bureau understand problems consumers are experiencing with consumer and credit reports.

- Consumers frequently complain about the processes for disputing information on their reports with consumer reporting companies. Many complaints indicate that consumers experience difficulties when submitting disputes through the phone and mail channels. Consumers sometimes report barriers to submission of disputes (e.g., authentication questions or customer service representatives that encourage consumers to contact the data furnisher first). After submitting disputes, some consumers claimed not to have received the results of their investigations or to have only received them after a lengthy delay.
- The process for blocking and removing information resulting from identity theft continues to be a concern for consumers. Some consumers report notifying both data furnishers and credit reporting companies of identity theft with appropriate documentation, only to have accounts verified as accurate.

- Consumers submit many complaints about inaccurate personal information on their reports. These disputes often involve incorrect or unrecognized names and addresses appearing on reports. A significant minority of these consumers state that their credit report information appears to be mixed with that of another consumer, frequently a family member or person with similar identifying information.
- Complaints about access to consumers reports, often referred to as credit inquiries, are increasingly common. Frequently consumers claim not to have initiated the inquiries by, for example, applying for a loan. Consumers state that consumer reporting companies will often direct consumers to dispute these inquiries directly with the company that accessed the report. A number of consumers reported that hard inquiries were temporarily deleted and then re-added to the consumer's report.
- A number of complaints involve credit scoring, and many reflect confusion over the variety of scores and scoring "factors" that often accompany credit score information. Consumers frequently express confusion when there are significant differences between different scores.
- Reporting of accounts in bankruptcy continues to be a frequent concern. Consumers are often confused by the status of accounts that have been included in wage earner plans or where the consumer has attempted to exclude certain accounts from their bankruptcy estate.

In addition to complaints against the nationwide credit reporting companies—Equifax, Experian, Transunion—consumers have submitted complaints on a number of other consumer reporting companies from July 21, 2011, through January 31, 2017. These companies specialize in providing reports in a number of areas, including background and employment screening, checking account screening, rental screening, and insurance screening. The majority of consumers submitting these complaints cited incorrect information on their credit reports.

2.2 Credit reporting complaints by state

Table 5 shows the credit reporting complaint volume percentage change by state.⁹ Some of the highlights include:

- Georgia (106 percent), Illinois (89 percent), and Alabama (65 percent) experienced the greatest percentage increase in credit reporting complaints from November 2015 - January 2016 to November 2016 - January 2017.
- Maine (-62 percent), Idaho (-52), and New Hampshire (-43 percent) experienced the greatest percentage decrease in credit reporting complaints from November 2015 - January 2016 to November 2016 - January 2017.
- Of the five most populated states, Illinois (89 percent) experienced the greatest percentage increase and New York (9 percent) experienced the least percentage increase in credit reporting complaints from November 2015 - January 2016 to November 2016 - January 2017.

⁹ Three-month averages are rounded, and percentage changes are based on non-rounded averages.

2.3 Credit reporting complaints by company

Each month, this section highlights the most-complained-about companies to which we sent complaints.

Companies are expected to respond to complaints sent to them within 15 days. If a complaint cannot be closed within 15 days, the company may indicate that its work on the complaint is “In progress” and provide a final response within 60 days. Company responses provided outside of those windows are considered untimely.

To protect consumer privacy, companies generally confirm with the consumer that any complaint submitted on their behalf by a third party was authorized. Companies alert the Bureau if they determine that a complaint was submitted by an unauthorized third party. Such complaints are not published in the Consumer Complaint Database or included in company-specific complaint volume presented in this report.

The most-complained-about companies highlighted in Table 6 received about 97 percent of all credit reporting complaints sent to companies for response in September - November 2016. This section highlights those complaints.

Company-level complaint data should be considered in context of company size and/or market share. For credit reporting complaints, one measure to consider is the number of consumer files maintained by the company. The three nationwide credit reporting agencies have files on approximately 200 million consumers

TABLE 6: MOST-COMPLAINED-ABOUT COMPANIES FOR CREDIT REPORTING¹⁰

Company	3 month average: Sep - Nov 2016	% change vs. 3 month period last year	3 month average % untimely: Sep - Nov 2016	Total Credit reporting complaints
Equifax	1,308.7	30%	0%	41,959
TransUnion	1,196.7	39%	0%	34,146
Experian	1,132.7	36%	0%	39,796

- Of these companies, TransUnion saw the greatest percentage increase in credit reporting complaints (39 percent), with Experian and Equifax following close behind (36 percent and 30 percent, respectively) from September - November 2015 to September - November 2016.
- Equifax, TransUnion and Experian provided a timely response to all complaints during the same period.

¹⁰ Three-month averages are rounded, and percentage changes are based on non-rounded averages. Total complaints represent cumulative complaints sent to companies through November 2016.

3. Geographic spotlight: Louisiana

Each month we spotlight the complaints from one part of the country. This month we are highlighting complaint trends in Louisiana and the New Orleans metro area. As of February 1, 2017, about 12,400 complaints were from Louisiana consumers, of which about 4,500 (36 percent) were from New Orleans. ¹¹

¹¹ The New Orleans metro area is defined as zip codes from the New Orleans-Metairie-Kenner, LA Core-Based Statistical Areas (CBSA). http://www.census.gov/population/metro/files/zip07_cbsa06.zip. Complaint counts are based on consumer-provided ZIP code and unless otherwise noted the geographic spotlight section reflects cumulative complaint data since July 21, 2011.

3.1 Louisiana complaints by product

Figure 4 shows the distribution of complaints by product for New Orleans, Louisiana, and the United States as a whole.

- Consumers in New Orleans and Louisiana submitted debt collection complaints at a rate of 32 percent and 34 percent, respectively, higher than the 27 percent national average.
- Consumers in New Orleans and Louisiana complained about credit reporting at a rate of 16 percent and 19 percent, respectively, compared to the 17 percent national average.

- Consumers in New Orleans and Louisiana complained about mortgages at a rate of 22 percent and 18 percent, respectively, compared to the 24 percent national average.

3.2 Louisiana complaints over time

Average monthly complaints increased 31 percent from November 2015 through January 2016 (236 complaints per month) to November 2016 through January 2017 (311 complaints per month), higher than the national rate of 21 percent.
